ANIMPACT

ANIMPACT is an ethical, legal and practical perspective on the impact of a new regulatory framework for the scientific use of animals on research and innovation in the European Union.

- ANIMPACT ends 31/12 2016
- Analysis and writing up will continue and the website be updated

- ANIMPACT has aimed to map and provide insight into some of the mechanisms working towards fulfilling the intentions of the Directive, be they directly related to the legislation or acting through other means
- We hope that what we have presented today will be useful supporting the continued work with implementing the goals of Directive 2010/63/EU across Europe
